Barcelona/Brussels, November 4, 20225: Atlanta based virtual accessibility company, Evenness and its founder and CEO, Eve Logunova-Parker, is honored with the 2025 Wholistic World Innovation Trophy (The TROPHY). The exclusive global award celebrating technological and social innovation used to sustainably improve our societies was presented last night to the laureate for the fifth time, this year again during the Democracy4All conference in Barcelona, November 3 at the economic campus of the University of Barcelona. The laureate and the exclusive art piece created by the internationally renowned Belgian-German artist, Ulrike Bolenz, were presented to the public.

The statement of the Jury Board is as follows: "Evenness strives to make all online and virtual experiences accessible to everyone, tailored to their unique health needs. With a sprinkle of AI magic and strong support from its growing community of allies, they assist digital and product teams in creating user-friendly applications for people with diverse physical and cognitive health profiles. That's why The TROPHY's jury board unanimously decided in their final 2025 meeting to award this year's Wholistic World Innovation Trophy to this company and its founder and CEO Eve Logunova-Parker."

Eve Lounova-Parker says: - "The Innovation Trophy represents more than an award for Evenness — it's a recognition of our vision to humanize technology, proving that accessibility, performance, and personalization can coexist to shape the Internet's next evolution."

Dieter Brockmeyer, cofounder and director of Innovation of the Diplomatic World Institute and initiator and curator of The TROPHY says: "After five year you can call it a tradition. We welcome Eve and her co-founders at our growing high profile alumni. This season also marks the relaunch of The TROPHY brand with a new CI and its first own web domain "the-trophy.com". We will continue on this path."

The TROPHY is facilitated by the Brussels based Diplomatic World Institute that was founded in 2019 as a spin off of the Diplomatic World Magazine.
